Everything didn't go the way you wanted, and now
you've gotta live with what you've done.
What you decided would be the best for you, the best for us.
Tell me what did you expect?
Do you have any regrets?
Cause I cannot forget.
You don't know me anymore.
You won't hear me anymore.
You can't hurt me anymore.
So I'm saying so long to you.
What about your promises forgotten, now they're coming back around on you.
Finish what you started, but it got to hard and giving up was all that you could choose.
It's time to let go of you, even though I don't want to.
It's your turn to make a move,
But I cannot bring myself to the point of no return or the place of where we were.
Cause tomorrow's much too far away to say goodbye.
It's do or die.
Yesterday has seen your face, the tears I've cried from one last try.
There's nothing more.
You don't know me anymore.
You're cutting ties, drawing lines.
And I'm saying so long to you.
We said goodbye, we both know why, cause there's nothing to hold onto.
And I'm learning to forget you, so I'm saying so long to you.
