Sloppy Meateaters
"Explore The Obvious"

Visit "Explore The Obvious" on MotoLyrics.com

Convinced I'm never gonna leave
I beg for mercy, I'm on my knees
I set my goals up to high
I gotta learn how to fall before I learn how to fly

And I know a guy -- he's got a bad attitude
Just miserable fuck with nothing to do
But sit around and curse that girl
His job, his mom and even the world

And this other guy he got a brand new car
And he bought some friends with his credit card
Are you happy now is everything fine
So your living in paradise but nothing's going right
I think life is wasted
When all we do is chase
For everything we're told we want
Lock my door to explore the obvious (Your life is so predictable - Your thoughts are so acceptable)

Am I searching for answers that just aren't there
Or am I searching for answers when I really don't care
I set my goals up to high
I gotta learn how to fall before I learn how to fly

Almost, to much, yet not enough
I see noone here that I can trust - everybodys going away

Visit Sloppy Meateaters page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.