

Dead Can Dance "Xavier"

Visit "Xavier" on MotoLyrics.com

Fair Roseanna, your vagrancy's a familiar tale fraught with danger, the lives you led were judged for fame hatred enfolds us, inculcates the minds with it's heresy laymen enfold us, clemency arrives to set you free!

Fate...
Although Xavier has prayed that life-giving waters may rain down on the souls of men to cure them of their pain.

These were the sins of Xavier's past hung like jewels in the forest of veils.

Deep in the heart where the mysteries emerge Eve bears the stigma of original sin freedom so high when we all are bound by laws etched in the scheme of nature's own hand unseen by those who fail in their pursuit of fate.

Although Xavier has prayed
that life-giving waters may rain
down on the souls of men to cure them of their ways

And as the night turns into day oh the sun, the moon, wish away although your nightmares come home to stay Xavier's love lies in chains

These were the sins of Xavier's past
hung like jewels in the forest of veils

Visit Dead Can Dance page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.