We'll wander off through the dead of night
Past wasteland of shattered souls
Warm by my firelight
I peer into the darkness alone
As the Indian summer of my remembrance
Settles on my bones
Cracked and weary
I asked for direction home
Home
Let the words spill from my mouth
Love
Love is everything I want
I'm one of many more to come
Love
Love is everything I want
Crossroads outside of town
Let heartbroken faces shine
In city lights, so far and dull
Turning left, I know it's time
With an urgent wind upon my rolling heels
To carry me along
My face downcast
That I turn to ruins passed and home
Home
Let the words spill from my mouth
Love
Love is everything I want
I'm one of many more to come
Love
Love is everything I want
Wander off in the dead of night
Past terrors and broken homes
Wipe the sleep from your eyes
Of riverbanks and catacombs
Sleeping to the bee and the sea
Always lived this life alone
Lay down beneath the loft
Cry out I know it's time
Love is everything I want
Love is everything I want
Love is everything I want
Love is everything I want
