wishing you were real
so i could wish you mine
i cling to all that is divine my woman lies with the dewdrops my courage with the stars

wishing you were real
so i could spy you from afar aimed at her myths of horseflies and spider eyes spun to her gilded webs of hope and mercy crimes

we'll take our secrets to the grave safely held beneath the thoughts the secrets will be lost while i'm forever not yours i'm wishing you were real my face is blistered true

wishing you were real
so that i could always wish for you
