

Smiths

"Piccadilly Palare"

Visit "Piccadilly Palare" on MotoLyrics.com

Off the rails I was and off the rails

I was happy to stay

GET OUT OF MY WAY

on the rack I was

"easy Meat"

but a reasonably good buy a reasonably good buy

the Piccadilly palare

was just a silly slang

between me and the boys in my gang

"so bona to vada, OH YOU your lovely eek and your lovely riah"

We plied an ancient trade where we threw all life's instructions away exchanging lies and digs (my way) well, in a belted coat oh I secretly knew that I hadn't a clue

the Piccadilly palare
was just a silly slang
between me and the boys in my gang exchanging palare you wouldn't understand good sons like you NEVER DO
So why do you smile when you thing about Earls Court? but you cry when you think of all the battles you've fought (and lost)? it may all end tomorrow or, it could go on forever (in which case; I'm doomed) it could go on forever

Visit Smiths page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.