We don't make friends,
We don't need them.
Killed our families,
And they will not be missed.

We don't make friends,
We build armies

You think you're clever? You're wrong.
You've got a lot to learn about coming on too strong.

Tell me everything you know about breaking a window.
Tell me everything you know about cracking a safecode.
Tell me everything you know about sirens' crescendos.
Tell me everything you know about being a scapegoat.

Metal's colder when it's pressed against your temple,
So keep it simple, boy.

Every motion's chilling through your nervous body.
Don't make me prove my point.

You think we're kidding? We're not.

We tried to warn them, but they never listen.
We tried to sing, but the melody twists,
I guess they don't understand

Tell me everything you know about breaking a window.
Tell me everything you know about cracking a
safecode.
Tell me everything you know about sirens' crescendos.
Tell me everything you know about being a scapegoat.
