imagine if i said i sometimes need you i need you to this day imagine if i said i sometimes hear you call my name imagine if i said i still could love you imagine what you'd say imagine if i said i sometimes still can see your face think
think about all the things we shared think about all the times we cared when all of your hopes have come and gone think about me and i'll be there there's something in the air that feels like winter the kind we used to know yesterday can seem like such a long time ago who could ever count the miles between us but now i know it's true imagine if i said that all my dreams are dreams of you
think about images we've drawn think about all those empty songs whenever you're sure that i won't dare think about me and i'll be gone it took me a long long time to learn that love is a thing you have to earn i finally realized it's true that i just can't make it without you
