Its been too long since I saw you last stammerin'
through this muddy path Weakened by the winter rain, and my head is bowed, eyes tight.
Shunted by my own shame, can't seem to find you in my head
So I walk. So I run, run into out of space I'm not going lose this race

you watched me fall away, took be back anyway
you watched me fall away, you were there

And I can't bear this pain, I know its all my fault.
Got heavy shoes and soul the same, got to make some time
But would you come again, and once you have I can't promise, not to screw it all up And I'd leave it all behind, just to be with you

you watched me fall away, took be back anyway

Its almost over, can't see the light
Are you coming at all, find me in this shame Pull me once more towards your distant shore Send the waterfall, send the flood Make some sense, out of all this mud I need you

you watched me fall away, took be back anyway
