watching the insects devour the last of the summer flowers listening to the same old thing but nothing is the same watching the only thing I ever really wanted slip away feeling the heat, I'm suffocating well aware that no one's waiting here or there or in between desperately holding onto what I think I need everything's over
everything's over
you say nothing could be wrong but I know things don't take this long if they're okay
nothing's okay
wasted all my time again today I'll never amount to anything if I go on this way watching the ocean take back every wish I make throwing sand back to the sea watching the sun go down and wishing that the waves would take back me everything's over

everything's over
if they're okay
nothing's okay
nothing's okay
