

Some By Sea

"Walk A Straight Line, Keep A Straight Face"

Visit "Walk A Straight Line, Keep A Straight Face" on MotoLyrics.com

I woke up feeling old today, so I took the car for a topless ride through town and every eyes was pinned on me like a badge declaring that I'd lost my mind. I survive my own time. Please don't ask me for a change of mind, I'll laugh in your face. 'Cause when you change and no one cares, you feel just like a ghost. Up along the mission ridge, we used to walk around and stare through dream-soaked eyes. I've never felt the same again. I'm not sure I ever will. I survive my own time. Please don't ask me for a change of style, I'll laugh in your face. 'Cause when you change and no one cares, you feel just like a liar. I don't want to change another thing. Please don't ever ask me for the truth. If you wake tomorrow and I'm there, I forgot to go and save the world. It's cold outside, so we can spend the day indoors and walk the straight line towards home. It's cold outside, so we can spend the day indoors and keep a straight face all day. Every time you check your watch, I'm waiting for a sign of something. It's cold outside, so we can waste the day indoors and walk the straight line towards home. It's cold outside, so we can waste the day indoors and keep a straight face all day. How does it feel to know that you're alive?

Visit Some By Sea page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.