Last night I had to admit I'm going to miss you and all these years gone by, now there's something missing here. I think it's you oh it's so you with the light left in the sky brought memories of you. With a hook in the butterfly's wing the beauty fades and life just passed me by and all these memories of you. It's like the butterfly we tried and we tried to stay awake in the lifeless dark but it's too hard. Mend these broken wings can't fly; Mend these broken wings can't fly. I think it's you oh it's so you with the light left in the sky brought memories of you.
