As I watch the sun go down on this beautiful town it's another day without you around, I found I loved you today my smoothness moved away, spinning out I'm losing my mind and choked up with nothing to say, I feel terrible for leaving this way. Can't you see whatever happens to me whatever happens to me? I'll wish you well and I hope this letter it finds you I hope this letter it finds you. The night I think I let you down I put my face to the ground and fuelled a fire of my own sound. My stomach it aches today I realised I went away, spinning out I'm losing my mind I'm choked up with nothing to say I feel terrible for leaving this way.
Shaking with nerves of steel and you broke my way to move how do I stand alone with knees that are blown.
Can't you see whatever happens to me whatever happens to me? I'll wish you well and I hope this letter it finds you I hope this letter it finds you.
