

Son Of Aurelius "A Good Death"

Visit "A Good Death" on MotoLyrics.com

Cornered and helpless. I'm horrified and shaking But I must not show fear nor cry out in order to have a good death
I must not beg for mercy. I will not see the next day But I'm proud, as the blade strikes I leave to join the gods
I feel the warmth as my life disbands, spilling onto the Staining the sand, the crowd roars as I fall lifeless and silent
This is a good death, but what has happened
I'm looking at my corpse
One dressed as Chloros
The other as Mercury, defile my body

This is not honorable Defile
I am in a dream, I must redeem myself, myself, this is nothing like what I was told I've been betrayed and I must redeem myself restore honor somehow I shall return Defile the body dragged through the sand by hooks through the ankle
I tried to stay honorable but now they have stripped my pride
Restless soul wanders the earth forever
This is disgraceful
This is a bad death.

Visit Son Of Aurelius page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.