I have really grown to hate you
And everything you've come to stand for
I write you in these words in vain

I have really grown to hate you
And everything you've come to stand for
I write you in these words in vain

I have really grown to hate you
And everything you've come to stand for
I write you in these words in vain

I have really grown to hate you
And everything you've come to stand for
I write you in these words in vain

This pen would go to better use
If I shoved it into your throat
And let you choke on
Your blood-filled breaths

This pen would go to better use
If I shoved it into your throat
And let you choke on
Your blood-filled breaths

This pen would go to better use
If I shoved it into your throat
And let you choke on
Your blood-filled breaths

However we once called
Each other friend
So this pen continues to write
Words that you ignore

However we once called
Each other friend
So this pen continues to write
Words that you ignore

However we once called

Each other friend
So this pen continues to write
Words that you ignore
