She's got wings that shine so bright
They keep her up most every night
Burning the candle at both ends
Livin' a lie up with all her friends

Only heaven only knows what's up her sleeve
She flies too fast and she dips too deep

She's an angel, too high to come down
She's an angel on the wrong side of town
The lights go dim on her long golden hair
She's an angel, an angel without a prayer

She wears a smile just like a clown
She never seems to touch the ground
The stars in her eyes keep her amused
She keeps getting further from the truth

Every day goes by just the same
The same old lies with a different name

She's an angel, too high to come down
She's an angel on the wrong side of town
The lights go dim on her long golden hair
She is an angel, an angel without a prayer

Devil's around every corner
Waitin' for her to fall

She's Daddy's little girl
She's lookin' down at the rest of the world
It gets lonely way up there
She believes but she just don't care

Only heaven knows what's up her sleeve
She flies too fast, an' she dips too deep

She's an angel, too high to come down
She's an angel on the wrong side of town
The lights go dim on her long golden hair
She's an angel, an angel without a prayer

She's an angel, too high to come down
She's an angel on the wrong side of town
The lights go dim on her long golden hair
She's an angel, an angel without a prayer

She's an angel without a prayer
She's an angel without a prayer
An angel without a prayer
