Stolen sandals,
Lifted in your arms,
Burning candles,
Drifting in your heart,
Slowly waving their hellos at me,
They were open for all eyes to see,
And I can live to tell
That they still burn in me.

Crowded tables,
And I still see your chair,
With your labels,
Resting as if your there,
Blowing cradles as we sway to sleep,
Converting fleeting cries to words we keep,
And theyre rising with the swell,
On the waves of destiny

How would I know
How would I know,
(How do I know where the angels can go,)
Where would I go,
(You wake to realize my dreams are two-fold,)
How would I know,
(I can not see you for my eyes are too blind,)
Where would I go,
(To understand you is a riddle in time,)
Oh oh oh oh.
Riddle in time

Crates of pleasure,
Ive held them Oh so long,
Times weve measured,
And life just cant be wrong,
And Im blinded by the cold night air,
The smell of spring is swinging through your hair,
And it reminds me of a place,
Where my troubles arent there

How would I know
How would I know,
(How do I know where the angels can go,)

Where would I go,
(You wake to realize my dreams are two-fold,)
How would I know,
(I can not see you for my eyes are too blind,)
Where would I go,
(To understand you is a riddle in time,)
Oh oh oh oh.
Riddle in time

And the things that I miss,
When I lie on your chest,
Are you thinking of me,
When youre lying in bed,
And I see in your eyes,
Im lost into time,
Are you thinking of me,
When Im not by your side.

How would I know
How would I know,
(How do I know where the angels can go,)
Where would I go,
(You wake to realize my dreams are two-fold,)
How would I know,
(I can not see you for my eyes are too blind,)
Where would I go,
(To understand you is a riddle in time,)
Oh oh oh oh.
Riddle in time,
How would I know
