I'm not a believer
When you want me to pray
And so when I need you
I just push you away

With the things that you gave in my hand
And the rules that I don't understand
For what used to be gray before is black or white

And I can't lean upon a star
And I can't make you go too far
No matter who you think you are

I'm not a collector
But I like to abuse
And so I respect you
When you're not in my shoes

Now the lines that you wrote have all changed
With the ones that you thought would remain
'Cause what used to be gray before is black or white

And I can't lean upon a star
And I can't make it go too far
Whatever happens in your way
It's coming back to you some day

Please, walk on by
'Cause I can't lean upon a star
No matter who you think you are
'Cause what used to be gray before is black or white
It's black or white
