If I be so inclined to climb up beside you,
Would you tell me that the time just isn't right?
And if I ever find the key you hide so well,
Will you tell me that I can spend the night?

Leavin a smell on my coat, leavin a taste on my shoulder.
I still fail to understand what it is about this woman.

If I could bottle up the chills that you give me
I would keep them in a jar next to my bed.
And If I should ever draw a picture of a woman
It is you that would come flowing from my pen

Leavin the clothes on the floor, Making me walk out the door
And I still fail to understand what it is about this woman.

Helplessly melting as I stand next to the sun.
As she burns me, I am screaming out for more Drink every drop of liquid heat that I've become.
Pop me open, spoon me out on to the floor.

leavin a smell on my coat, leavin a taste on my
shoulder,
I still fail to understand, fail to understand leavin a smell on my coat, leavin a taste on my
shoulder.
I still fail to understand what it is about this woman.
