Blue And Grey

collected all these words to paint this picture for you and try to get you to see these words might have no worth unless you understand that this picture wants to be free and I've spent all this time in a world that chooses victims for a faceless crime that just adds to the statistics of the hurt not seen you never see me when I'm blue, blue, blue and grey there's not a day gone by that I don't see this picture reveal itself in my head but everyday I try to prove to you I'm alive though parts of me might be dead and I've spent all this life I'll carry the burden of a beaten wife raped and bruised and battered by the hurt not seen you've got to be strong and proud don't let the loss of dignity get you down you're more than just the flower in the field he found silence can't overcome with a truth so loud
