(Royston Langdon)

The band wrote this song to make their mark as positive lyricists, and so made it the debut album's first track. The video, however, depicts bored transvestites watching the band in concert.

and in the end we shall achieve in time
The thing they call divine
When all the stars will smile for me
When all is well and well is all for all
And forever after,
Maybe in the meantime wait and see
We love the all the all of you
Our lands are green and skies are blue
When all in all we're just like you
We love the all of you and when I cry for me I cry for you

With tears of holy joy
For all the days you've still to come,
And did I ever say I'd never play
Or fly toward the sun

Maybe in the meantime, something's missing
We love the all, the all of you
Our lands are green and skies are blue
Then all in all we're just like you
we love the all of you

Well that sounds fine so I'll see ya sunshine
And give my love to the future of the humankind
OK. OK. it's not o.k.
And while it's on my mind there's a girl that fits the crime
Of a future lover's dream that I've still to find but in the meantime

We love the all the all of you
Our lands are green and skies are blue
Now all in all we're just like you
We love the all of you.
