I passed your house tonight

And I stood outside

I passed your house tonight

And I almost cried

Oh how I missed seeing you waiting at the door for me

And wondered if your heart asked anymore for me

Then all at once I knew

You no longer cared

I saw two silhouettes in the window there

Two silhouettes in the window that kissed by candle
light

And so I passed your house tonight

Two silhouettes in the window that kissed by candle

And so I passed your house tonight
