I slept outside this house for the last time today
I shouldn't have to feel like a stranger on in my own bed

I can't just forget about everything that we've done

I can't just hit erase every time I fuck up

It's all coming down

These walls, this room, this whole fucking house
And I can't take one more step into something I'll regret

I walk this line for you and it keeps getting longer

I'm starting to think that it has no end

Just give me a reason, Just one fucking reason

Why I should keep trying

Or it's...

All Coming down

These walls, this room, this whole fucking house

And I can't take one more step into something I'll regret

There's just no telling what emotion that you will feel next

There's just no way I can see what's going on inside your head

It's all coming down

These walls, this room, this whole fucking house

It's all coming down

These walls, this room, this whole fucking house

And I won't take one more step into something I'll regret
