All I need, is indeed
Some place to believe in, something
You consider like a place called home
Once more, a place called home.
Drop the heat, empty streets
Need no calm down, need no calm town
Nor an old people's home no.

One last call, flee from a
Godforsaken hole, dump out in the cold
I can't wait until I run down, this shitty town
Burn the city down.

Ok, tap your feet and clap the beat like:
Gimme ma boys, gimme the girls
And awesome people help me to be hold enough.

I don't see, oh tell me where is the lie, where is the lie
This city, is already going to die, going to die
Come with me, the sunrise shines us surprises, shines us surprises.

All I need, is indeed, someplace to believe in something.
