Who can talk about your other brothers?
who can talk and last through the night?
help me find a way to help the others help me try and make it alright

And that little one you hurt that you think of everyday with the feeling that you've heard it all before and you're picking up the pieces that i broke off in your head it's in your head

You know it's just like revolution it's a good time while it lasts and it's just like the military coming home to take my life and it's just like it's necessary to leave home to take a wife

She's the one she is a thousand others she's the one to make it alright it's me again it's me against the others it's me against the wall and it's alright

You know it's just like revolution...
