She said, "It happens all the time
Two people fall out on each other.
Its so hard to stay in line
We can't push this much farther."

She gave me a look and then she walked out the door.
She left me standing here all alone.
She said she wanted her life to be so much more.
I wonder when she's coming home.

So I sat here for hours waiting for her to phone and to hear her rying and telling me she was wrong.

Well that was a long time ago
and I'm still waitin gfor her to return
I heard the other day that she got married
I guess she'll never learn
