We sit in your tree house
The view from the top floor
The moon shinning through
All the leaves in the trees
I lean close and whisper,
Can we stay here forever
Out here in your back yard just us
And the autumn breeze

For the first time I feel like I'm at a loss for words
There's nothing left to do but move forward
I'm finally ready for something good

I don't know if you've noticed
But I'm trying not to show that
I'm scared that one day
I might wake up and realize that you are not there.

For the first time I feel like I'm at a loss for words
There's nothing left to do but move forward
I'm finally ready for something good
