Where would you be without the letters in the hills to spell out what you need?

Where would you go without the lights in the west to lead you on?

Bite those cheeks, girl
Show off those cheekbones
Strike a pose for the camera
I'm sure you'll find "it"
I'm sure you'll find him
Hidden behind the camera

All of those smiles you see are fake

I resent you for representing everything I thought I wanted in my life

You see, I'm guilty too
I want it just as bad as you

But think of the miles it will take us
Think of the roles we'll have to play
