I live a life that's sheltered i'm constantly alone
They're pointing out my weakness
There's an emptiness at home
I need to find a reason to live this way
I'm running out of patience and my life is over
I'm standing here but i'm on my way
Searching to find an answer
I'm standing here but it's all the same
And i'm running out of patience
I've obtained my reason for you
I have gained a reason for you
But you left me you left me here and im all alone
I've been striped of my innocence i take pity in myself
A certain chain of events that have left me in this hell
I need to find a reason to live this way
I'm running out of patience and my life is over
I need you i want you but i need to get away from you
