There was the silver circle sign and she was standing at the door
We pressed our way right through the crowd
Our pace was quickened to her floor
There was a single feigning light, and there was silk all on the wall
She had a lot of love to give
I was prepared to take it all
(And what did she do next?)

She had disrobed and she was waiting on the floor
She asked me what it was I want I thought that I wanted it all
(What did you say?)
I said stand up and move your body to the bed
She quickly stood and slowly turned
And here's exactly what she said

"Please be soft and sweet to me,
This life has not been good you see,
It's hard with such a history
... buried in misery"
(And what did you do next?)

I broke a smile reminding that I paid her well
Her lips were turned and then I felt her hands unbuckling my belt
(So was it good?)
Oh it felt like heaven but I'm sure she was in hell
I made it clear I'd get my moneys worth out of the good she sells

Break and bind yourself to me
Deliver what you sold, you see that
I will only take from you
And use it up
I'll use you up
What was your name?

Break and bind yourself to me
Deliver what you sold, you see that
I will only take from you

To use it up
I'll use you up
What was your name?
