If I said I could come back to you
Would you laugh at my face
And say baby we're through?
If I told you this time it'd be true
Would you believe the words that are spoken to you?

I'm a few months older now
With a good head on my shoulders now
And I'm trying to live in the way that you taught me to give

Halcyon days these could be
But sadness might snuff out that sunshine in me
Out of all the people I see
Well I still prefer you for my chickadee

I'm a few months older now
With a scar a upon my shoulders now
And I'm dying to live in the way that you taught me to give

I became
New with you
True for you
Blue without you
With true for you

My eyes try and see through the blue
But it's tough and painted so thick upon you Loneliness I can pull through
But when it leaves will it take all thoughts of you?

I'm a few months older now
With a good head on my shoulders now
And I'm trying to live in the way that you taught me to
give

With true for you
