I used to be an angel
I used to talk to god
I used to believe in miracles
A miracle of love
I used to be a space boy
Yeah a race boy
I used to be not far
You told me you're not worth the pain
I say you're a liar, you're a liar, you're a liar
But I am free
Stood upon the edge and looked over
And I see
And that pretty face so out of place
That broken smile somehow worthwhile
But I wanna hear you laugh
I wanna see you cry
I wanna wipe the tears far from your eye
I saw you last night
You said you'd be there today
We'd meet at your car next to the stay
I'm not better than most of my friends
Now they're just like me
But I don't blame them for my actions
I'm see, what we'll see
But I am free
Stood upon the edge and looked over
And that's me
And that pretty face so out of place
That broken smile somehow worthwhile
Say that you're gone but you came for me
Yeah you see I'm me
And you came for me
Now you know now that you're away
I wanna hear you laugh
I wanna see you cry
I wanna wipe the tears far from your eye
I saw you last night
You said you'd be there today
We'd meet at your car next to the
I woke up this morning and I said to myself
How you gonna change the world when you're stuck upon the shelf? '

It's the big things I remember the little things I forgot
When you add it all up that's a hell of a lot
The things that I missed and one thing to the day before
It's all one but it's a little bit more
They said it's gone
But I wanna hear you laugh
I wanna see you cry
I wanna wipe the tears far from your eye
I saw you last night
You said you'd be there today
We'd meet at your car next to the
I used to be an angel
I used to talk to god
And I used to believe in miracles
A miracle went wrong, all wrong, all wrong, all wrong
