It's a hard month this november
Your flight left late last night to Minnesota to be with her Love for me was hard to find

Those feelings you had me believing was never how
you really felt
Those feelings you had me believing was never how
you really felt

It's a cold month this December
This town was once my home
In the city things are changing Everything here is turning old

Those feelings you had me believing was never how
you really felt
you really felt

You don't want to lead me on
The damage has already been done
I bet you still wanna be friends
I have nothing left to give Left to give
And I won't pretend
I can't

It's a new year
The corks are popping
Raise a glass up for a toast with your new friends
There is no stopping
This year we promise to make the most
This year we ought to make the most

Those feelings you had me believing
Those feelings you had me believing
Those feelings you had me believing was never how
you really felt
Those feelings you had me believing was never how
you really felt
Was never

Those feelings
Believing

Those feelings
Believing
