We're falling faster every second that we waste on
Living in the moment 'til the moments gone.
But what have we got to lose?
You're a liar but I'm hanging on every word
Of every late night call, but most of all,
I'm hoping that I'll be more than just a memory
When the feeling fades...

I could tell by every word that was on your lips
And the touch of your hand. I know you're spinning me
in circles again.
No not again...

It's taking everything that I have just to stay here.
Everything I am says to let go. But what have I got to lose?
I'm hoping for better next time.
It kills me to know what you can't hide.
Your will is weak, but his talk is cheap.
So I brace myself.

I could tell by every word that was on your lips
And the touch of your hand. I know you're spinning me
in circles again.
No not again...
I can't take this.
We were so close.
I don't wanna know
