

Death In December "Chemistry And Heartache"

Visit "Chemistry And Heartache" on MotoLyrics.com

I stood at the front porch as you drive away
I should have known you'd kill me again
But it's too late because I'm sitting here alone again
I followed your footsteps as you'd walk away
To see your face is the reason why I'm sitting here
I should have known you'd walk away from the inside
I should have known you'd kill me again
But I guess I'd do it all over again
I should have known you'd walk away from the first night
I should have known you'd kill me again
Take these memories and we'll pretend we're all the same
Take this chemistry and we'll pretend we're all ok
I should have known you were up to no good

Visit Death In December page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.