

Death In December "Hometown Heroes"

Another Sunday, it's our last chance to break

A thousand words would never say the thoughts I waste

You think your pretty, last time to dance
I'll savor every time you'll never have a chance

Another midnight, we'll never die
A million times you've tried, but your just taking up my time

It's always getting harder, I'll let you slip by,
Each time my blood drips dry heroes never die

Take me away, It's getting harder every day I'm on my knees
Each day slips by, but every time you try, your heroes never die

I hate the way you taste, I'm getting stronger
We'll never be the same, can't last much longer
