you really had a million hearts to break

(now it's time that I??)never left you in the moonlight how come there's always someone else driving your car

taking you different places, in the sunlight

still cold like the stars that's just the way you are

used to say your heart, felt like a stone now everything you ever wanted is your own
