[Jill Scott]

I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you
I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you

[Fredro Starr]

yo, father forgive, we all tryin to survive where we live i'd rather feed the homeless take times talk to their kids show'em life ain't no walk on the bridge damn as hard as it is, when i be dreamin' i be talkin to B.I.G in my head it ain't no yellow brick road, we hear the shots echo sneakers hangin from a telephone pole in my ghetto aint no rainbow wit pots a gold but that was love from the family when times are cold i seen an analyzed the world from my project roof and seen the hope in the eyes of a troubled youth a good kip, i kept this burnin' in dis motha goose a motherless child, lost in these streets loose in the waterworlds away these are rainy days my man got popped at an early age these cowards run an' say he flipped into his early grave they say the good die young, were headed for them pearly gates

[Jill Scott]

I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you
I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you

[Fredro Starr]

yo, they say this love wasn't meant to be 2 people from 2 different worlds, we wasn't meant to be it musta been fate you were sent to me we'll make it through these hard times, eventually the standard fight, walk by faith an' not by sight we're all the same color when you turn off the lights i take the sunshine with the pain wear my Saraguards sad,dats when it rains no fridge,kept the food on tha window pane we all breathe the same air so we all the same i'm trapped in this ghetto maze tryin' to make it out if you don't know me don't judge me,what cha' talkin'

'bout i'm far dividable of ard of the broken dreams single motha's yall my heroes,yall my queens to get my moms out the hood,that's my hope an' dreams to raise my son to be a soldier by any means

[Jill Scott]

I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you
I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you

I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you
I see your true color, shining through
I see your true color, and thats why I love you...

true colors.... i see baby... i see, i see your true colors...
