(Don Reid - Harold Reid)

There must be some place for her to go
Where are all those friends that she used to know
They might be the reason for the tears in her eyes
When the TV's gone old cheerleaders cry.

She used to be so happy way back when
That might has been the last time she thought she had
to win
She knows what the stories so she don't even try
When the TV's gone old cheerleaders cry.

--- Instrumental ---

I can't understand the things that she does
Whatever happened to her high school love
She lives in the past but she's living a lie
When the TV's gone old cheerleaders cry.

She used to be so happy way back when
to win
She knows what the stories so she don't even try
When the TV's gone old cheerleaders cry.
