I've got union dues and taxes and a mortgage end of this month,
And Billy broke his arm today in school,
Mama called and said her stove went out and daddys got the flu,
But through it all, thank God I've got you.

I've got rooms needing papered, my old cars still in the shop,
And Fred got that promotion instead of me,
I've got more than I can handle and twice what I can do,
But through it all, thank God I've got you.

When things start getting tough it seems like you do too,
When there just aint enough you always make do,
When it gets more than I can handle and twice what I can do,
I just stop and thank God I've got you.

I've got kids asking questions I can answer about the Lord,
Finally put up my old pick up truck for sale,
And that note I signed for Uncle Ed is three weeks
overdue,
And honey, here's hoping the same ain't true with you.

I've got kids asking questions I can answer about the Lord,
Finally put up my old pick up truck for sale,
And that note I signed for Uncle Ed is three weeks
overdue,
And honey, here's hoping the same ain't true with you.

And honey here's hoping the same aint true with you...
