You can look down your nose but I don't care
Let my business get into your hair
You walk around like there's glass in your shoe
Every time this mess comes near you
See, I know it makes you sick that I
Said what I said when you'd "Just die"
You're so polite it makes me sick
And we deserve better than this
But they would call it going one step too far
Yeah that's what they call it
Going one step too far
You can please those fools if you really want
But don't you think they're just doing the same?
It's one big game and all we reap
Is misery, and I'm opting out
I can't go one step further
I just don't care
We call it living
And you call it going one step too far
If I could I would draw a line
Put all the false faces on the other side
Call it my very own political divide
When police come, bastards
You'd better fuckin' hide!
We're going one step too far
One step too far
We call it living
And you call it going one step too far
