When they say that they are victims
Well I hope that you listen closely And when you claim victimisation It's funny but please don't insult me Well today is the day when the local church is closing down
Please excuse me if I smirk when the stained glass gets covered up For too long your righteous stench has been hanging around
And now it's a shame, it appears you're no longer welcome in this town
The culture on the same street, well it might destroy the liver
But it doesn't destroy the soul or called a frightened child a sinner Smiley happy people know it Smiley happy people show it And the law will not protect you from what those bastards think So today is the day when the local church is closing down
We're just tired
Don't claim persecution when I am around Change the record, change the record...
