I wish I had a dime for every time I've thought of you I'd be the richest girl in the whole wide world for sure But all I have to show for the million tears I've cried for you
Is an ching in my heart and a yearning down in my soul Time can change the best laid plans of a woman and a man
What I should do is forget about you but I don't think I can Cause you're on my mind nearly all the time honey come home

I wish there was a way that I could say what you mean to me
Nut every time I try the words come out all wrong
If I could hold you close just one more time maybe then you'd see
That all I need from you is a love for me to be strong
Time can change the best laid plans...
Time can change the best laid plans...
Honey come home honey come home
