Come on home, come on home
You're too long gone, please come home

Seems like a lifetime since you walked out that door
It's only perfume who stayed a little more
Do I remember the color of your eyes ?
Is it green or grey, grey or blue - what did we do ?

Come on home, you're too long gone
I'll sink like a stone if you don't come home

It was a quiet word, it sounded like breaking
Sounded like my little world, like the end of it
I'm dancing with a shadow, hanging in the air
Like some forgotten arrow, I'm flying nowhere

Nobody slams doors like you do
And nobody loves like you when you do

Come on home, you're too long gone
I'll sink like a stone if you don't come home

Come up the stairs, take out your key
Open that door and lay between the sheets and me

Come on home, you're too long gone
I'll sink like a stone if you don't come home

I stare at the phone, waiting for the tone
If you ever were alone, come on, sing along.
