I tell This Night to please slow down
One evening do you remember, singing I pass your always
You sleep, hidden in these boundless deep nights
In the same moment, I laugh and I cry

Every moon is horrible and every sun is bitter
True love doesn't exist but it's the love of both of us
Every moon is horrible and every sun is bitter, so bitter

I tell this night to please slow down
Do you know the inner fever ? My hand over flames
The early twilight hurts, the dream to the dream
As mysterious as your eyes which gleam under your tears

Every moon is horrible and every sun is bitter
True love doesn't exist but it's the love of both of us
Every moon is horrible and every sun is bitter, so bitter

I tell This Night to please slow down, please slow down
They never say what, but only request
We to look at them each and every day
I take my knife while the others take the mask

Every moon is horrible and every sun is bitter
True love doesn't exist but it's the love of both of us
Every moon is horrible and every sun is bitter, so bitter.
