If you could see the lies and deception
And what ran through my veins
You would have a different perception
Now can you feel my rein?

Imagine you at gunpoint
Your intentions take your life
Oh god how you envy me
Because I still have mine

It was sincere thoughts to empty lies
Who cares now? it's all behind
My back and there's why don't you care
Please admit it's all a lie

Your words do burn like water does
To every breath that I inhale
Don't be alone, where do you roam?
Where you go I'll find your trail

Chances are, we are driving in your car
Lose control, we are running off the road.
The air is blurry but don't you worry doll
Soon you'll get what you deserve
