What did I do
To make you sad like this
I only saw a part of you
That you failed to see

Don't walk away from me
Because a part of you is still real

What can I do
When you won't listen to me
I only want to help you through
And make sure that you're alright

Don't walk away from me
Because a part of you is still real

She screams lonely
She screams pain
She's only looking for someone who's the same
And in her silence
She seeks rest
She cries out for the things she's missed

And all along you thought you knew
No one could get near to you
And everything you need to hear
Is everything you always feared

She screams lonely
She screams pain
She's only looking for someone who's the same
And in her silence
She seeks rest
She cries out for the things she's missed
