

Steve Burns "Mighty Little Man"

Visit "Mighty Little Man" on MotoLyrics.com

A tired man in his chair
Doesn't move he only stares
At the machine across the room
There's nothing there; it's not getting through
He shakes his head, finally stands up
Throws his hands up in the air
A blinding flash across the room
A sudden crash, a sonic boom
Changes everything he knew
It's everything he's never seen
The biggest deal there's ever been Described in light upon the screen
(it said)
Nobody else is stronger than I am
Yesterday I moved a mountain
I'd like to be your hero
I am a mighty little man
From way up here you can't look down
As of now there is no ground
The microscope is turned around
Don't be alarmed, don't make a fuss
He's still like you; he's one of us
And he'll come back before too long
He takes a breath and clears his mind
Grabs his coat and steps outside
An empty street, there's no one there
He lifts himself into the air
A billion thoughts expressed as one
Etched in words across the sun
(it said)
Nobody else is stronger than I am
Yesterday I moved a mountain
I'd like to be your hero
I am a mighty little man

Visit Steve Burns page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.