Bare legs soft hands lay upon me
Warm breath on my chest keeping time
I'm not sure if this is real or if I'm dreaming
I'm almost afraid to open my eyes

Sunlight dancing on tan skin and pure white linen
A good breeze helps to cool down the room
This is as close as I've ever been to heaven
Stealing away a little daylight lovin' you

CHORUS:

I should feel guilty and I shouldn't be here now
But your arms keep holding me
And coaxing me to lay back down
Right now I should be working
But it's worth every penny I'll lose
Stealing away a little daylight lovin' you

I bet the boys down at the job know what I'm doing
When I call in sick on a perfect afternoon
But girl they've all seen you so they wouldn't blame me
Stealing away a little daylight lovin' you

CHORUS:

I should feel guilty and I shouldn't be here now
But your arms keep holding me
And coaxing me to lay back down
Right now I should be working
But it's worth every penny I'll lose
Stealing away a little daylight lovin' you
