War is the life not worth to know the pain of missing home lost in the storm your love keeps me warm it hurts me to leave you and wanting to hold you I breathe my one last breath

I will be missing you losing the fight don't close your eyes loving you I am too far away with nothing to say losing you I promise to god not to leave you tonight missing you

Tear after tear facing my fears wishing to hold you leaving behind the loved ones tonight only god can save me I remember the last words that you spoke to me those memories inside will help set me free

I will be missing you losing the fight don't close your

There are voices in my head telling me I'm not alone I been left for dead I just want to go home a letter to you my heart stops tonight

I will be missing you losing the fight don't close your

We all will miss you
